Relationship Notes for Joseph George Pollard and Leah Sarah Morris

It is assumed the marriage occurred shortly after her father wrote his will in Dec. 1749 for, although he referred to her as Leah Morris, he made specific provisions for her that were similar to those of her married sister, Elizabeth Harris, and she was not included with her unmarried sisters, Oney, Rhoda & Tabitha in the ultimate division of real estate.

Message board post by Drury Hatcher:

After Leah's death, the heirs instituted a suit to provide for sale of the personal property. The suit was filed in 1830, and the final order was not entered until 1839. At the time of Leah's death, ten children were alive, and George and Thomas had died leaving heirs. Hannah James, the only child mentioned in Leah Pollard's 1822 will, was the only child not included in Joseph's will to share in the residuary. Of the thirteen mentioned, Hezekiah apparently died without children as he is not mentioned in the court proceeding.

SPECULATION ABOUT CHILDREN:

Nothing has been found identifying the children of Zachariah and Rhoda. The biography of Alexander Pollard in Chadwick's History of Shelby Co., Ind., published in 1909, (see pages 952-3) makes clear that they were the parents of John J. Pollard who settled in Indiana. That biography implies that there were other children who spread out to various states, but the language can be read to refer to Pollards in general rather than Zacharia and Rhoda in particular. That biograph indicates that the family first moved to North Carolina, and John J. appears in the 1830 census for Stokes Co., North Carolina. The 1850 census indicates that John children who were born in 1833 and earlier were born in North Carolina. The militia records for the War of 1812 for Stokes Co. show only two Pollards - John and Hansford. Their pension applications at the National Archives indicate the enlisted the same day in the same militia company. Information found in the census records for Hansford indicate that he could be a brother of John, and I show him as a brother. An April 22, 2005 e-mail received from Eric Mudell, a descendant of John J. Pollard, states "John J. Pollard and Nancy E. (Simpson) Pollard have one [a Bible] dating to their marriage in 1861. At a later time, a family member apparently scribbled in a few notes. Among them were the names :Hansford Pollard, Stephen Pollard, Orpha Pollard and Christina (Mitts) Pollard. No attribution was made regarding the inclusion of these names handwritten into a "notes" section of the Bible at a later time. I'm not certain how these names figured into the lineage"

John J. was a son of John and a grandson of Zacharia. It is tempting to speculate that the list is a list of his father's brothers and sisters. As indicated in the notes for Hansford, I had already suspected that Hansford was brother. Perhaps the others are also siblings. Orpha Pollard, like Hansford, settled in Bledsoe Co., Tennessee, and she is listed in Hansford's household at the time of the 1850 census. Also in the household and listed immediately before Orpha is Chastine Pollard. Is he Christian; nothing has been found for a Christian Pollard. Borth Chastine and Orpha were born in Virginia - Chastine about 1784 and Orpha 1792-1800 [1850 census, Tennessee, Bledsoe Co., Eastern Dist., Roll M432_870, p. 379, family 392. Accordingly, I have added her as a daughter.

A search for information for Stephen resulted in the identification of only one possibility - a Stephen, b. 1801 or 1802 in Virginia, who was in Tennessee from at least 1839 until 1859\60 when he moved to Missouri. This Stephen's children later identified their father's birthplace as Virginia, North Carolina, and Tennessee - all states connected with Zachariah, John J., and Hansford. No one else appears to have paid any attention to this Stephen (he is not listed in postings for Stephen Pollard at RootsWeb or Ancestry.com or in the Pollard message boards). I am tenatively identifying him as another son based on his listing in the John J. Pollard Bible, his age, and birthplace. Further research is needed.

Yet another possibility is Clabourn Pollard. He is listed next to Zachariah in the 1813 tax records of Snow Creek, Stokes Co., North Carolina, and he may be another son. He was born in Virginia about 1789 and appears in the Bledsoe Co., census from 18.. thru 1850. He, like Hansford, Orpha, and Chastine, lived in the eastern dist. of Bledso Co., and they three men lived relatively close together (Clabourn famill 379 and Hansford, Chastine and Orpha family 392). I am tenatiely idenfying Clabourn as another son, but no one should rely on this idenfication.

Another Pollard appears in Bledsoe Co who might be related. 1850 Census, Tennessee, Bledsoe Co., eastern dist, Roll M432_870, p. 407, family 772, with family of John Gentry, Tean Pollard, 71 [b. 1779] male, no occupation, b. Virginia, cannot read or write. In 1860 census, Tenna, 74 [b. about 1786] in Virginia; in the household of Nancy Pollard in 1860; Tennessee, Bledsoe Co., Pikeville, M653-1240, p. 398, family 266. Sex is indeterminate - in 1860 in the column of sex there is the beginning of the word "Hermaphrodite"

Many of the individuals who might be related to Zacharia were in Bledso Co., Tennessee. Unfortunately, the wills and tax records of that county were destroyed early in the 20th century.

Francis Thomas Pollard

Will of Francis Pollard; Charlotte Co., Virginia, Will Book 13; page 225:

3. All the rest and residue of my estate both real and personal I direct to be kept together under the control and management of my executors for the comfortable support and maintenance of my wife during her natural life - and in case the profits of the estate should prove insufficient for that purpose, my executors are authorized to use such portion of the principal as may be necessary.
4. At the death of my wife, I order, will and direct that the whole of my estate, real and personal, then remaining be sold, by my executors and the money arising from the sale be divided as follows -
5. To my grandchildren John Powers and Martha Powers, children of my deceased daughter, Parkey Powers, one twentieth part to be equally divided between them, and the residue of said money to be divided into nine parts as follows -
6. To my sons Thomas S. Pollard, Francis Pollard, Isaac Pollard, and William Pollard one ninth part each, without any charge against them.
7. To the four youngest children of my deceased son Warner Pollard, namely Washington, William, Francis, and Robert, one ninth part to be equally divided between them - but out of this ninth part I direct my Executors to pay to my son Thomas S. Pollard a debt due him from my said deceased son Warner Pollard amounting to one hundred and eighty-three dollars and 86 cents [$183.86], to carry interest from this day till paid, in case the said ninth part should not amount to enough to pay the whole of the said debt and interest, then they will pay so much thereof, as the said ninth may amount to and no more.
8. I direct that one ninth part be set apart for the use of my son George Pollard and to be paid over to my son Thomas S. Pollard as a trustee for his use, but not to be in any manner liable to the debts or control of the said George but out of this portion of my estate thus provided for my said son George, I order, will, and direct my executors to pay to my son Thomas S. Pollard for his own use the full amount of a debt owing to him by the said George, to wit the sum of one hundred thirty-two dollars and five cents [$132.05], with legal interest thereon from the 25th day of March, 1826, till paid, and in case the said ninth should not amount to enough to pay the said debt and interest, then they will pay so much as the said ninth may amount to and no more -
9. To my daughter Eliza Maloney I give one ninth part, but out of her ninth I direct my executors to pay to my son Thomas S. Pollard the full amount of a debt due him from Campbell Maloney, the husband of the said Eliza Maloney, to wit the sum of eight hundred dollars [$800] with legal interest thereon from the 15th day of October, 1834 till paid and in case the said ninth should not amount to enough to pay the said debt and interest, they will pay so much thereof as the said ninth may amount to and no more --

This provision to pay the debt due from the said Campbell Maloney to the said Thomas S. Pollard is made in compliance with an obligation which I entered into with him the 15th day of October, 1834.

10. To my daughter Martha Garner I give one ninth part, but she is to be charged in the division with the value of a negro woman named Betty heretofore given her.

11. To my daughter Nancy Hines I give one ninth part, but she is to be charged in the division with the value of a negro woman named Alsey heretofore given her --

I appoint my sons Thomas S. Pollard and Francis Pollard Executors of this my last will and testament. Given under my hand and seal this 24th day of February, 1846.

Hannah Pollard

Father's will refers to her as "Hannah James". She is the only child mentioned in his will who is not left a share of the residuary; consequently she is not a party to the 1830 chancery cause to divide Joseph's estate.

Moses Pollard

It appears the middle name Moses came from his maternal grandmother, Mary Moses. It survived at least one more generation when Joseph G. Pollard names his first son Moses G. Pollard.

His second son, Joseph G. Pollard, then named a son Isaac G. Pollard, and it is interesting that Isaac was a family name...that of Nancy Morris' grandfather, Isaac Morris. More reasons to believe we have the right Virginia family.

I copied the following from Carolyn Gould. Based on the naming of Joseph G. & Mary Gilstrap Pollard's children, the sequence and patterns, I have long believed that this "Moses Pollard" was Joseph's father. Still can't prove it, but, as did Carolyn Gould, I am tentatively penciling it in.

Notes: (con't)Elizabeth Pollard

Elizabeth was the dau. of Joseph Pollard and Leah Morris. The 1830 chancery cause complaint of the heirs of Joseph after Leah's death shows "James Deaton in right of his wife Betty Deaton, formerly Betty Pollard" among those "entitled to full shares of said [estate] & are absent from this Commonwealth" Her wedding bond shows her Robert Pollard giving consent, and a witness to the consent was Leah Pollard. Some internet trees incorrectly show Robert as her father.

Mary Pollard

Mary apparently died without children before the death of her mother; she is not mentioned among the heirs in the 1830 chancery cause brought by her father's heirs; Chancery Causes: Joseph Pollard heirs v. Joseph Pollard admn., Amelia Co., 1830-06

Isaac Pollard

Excerpt from research notes of James Maloney:

"1842 - Joseph Foster Rev. War Application - "Isaac Pollard of Amelia County Virginia (aged 94 years)" made an affidavit 8 Sept 1842 in connection with a Revolutionary War land claim made by Larkin Foster based on the service of his brother, Joseph, who was killed in the Revolution (available at the Library of Virginia Web Page). Larkin was the son of George Pollard and Susanna Pollard, and was likely the first cousin of Isaac."
